

SCHOOL NUTRITION TEAM - Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction - School Nutrition Bulletin #6, November 8, 2016

Announcements from WI DPI School Nutrition Team:

- Produce Safety University Opportunity
- Serving Up Science Opportunity

Produce Safety University (PSU)

Produce Safety University is a one-week, all expenses paid training course for USDA's Food and Nutrition Service State agency and local school district partners. Each state is able to nominate up to four individuals to attend PSU. The School Nutrition Team will focus on selecting interested individuals who currently have a role in training school food service staff at either the district or school level. Participants are expected to teach others about produce safety using the comprehensive training materials provided to all attendees.

Produce Safety University is hosted by the FNS Office of Food Safety. The 2017 dates and locations of Produce Safety University are listed below.

| Dates 2017    | Locations            |
