Appreciative Inquiry Core Processes
Don Schutt, UW-Madison

- Instead of focusing on deficits...
- Seeks what is going right and builds on those strengths
- Discussion and verbal exploration helps to create new images...
- New images lead to new actions and behaviors

Happenstance Career Theory
John Krumboltz

- Indecision is desirable and sensible, as it allows the opportunity for clients to benefit from unplanned events.
- Several factors have been highlighted as being helpful in career management,
- These attributes and tasks enable you to turn chance encounters and occurrences into career opportunities.

This approach looks at a client's life as a "novel being written". It emphasizes recurring themes that reveal how the client uses work to advance his or her life projects.

We become experts in our weaknesses and spend our lives trying to repair these flaws, while our strengths lie dormant and neglected. Reveals how they can be translated into personal and career success. Help you learn how to focus and perfect these themes.

Individualized

How do we meet the needs of all students?

The intent of the academic and career planning process is to meet the individual needs of students for college and career planning, along with assisting students with creating a life plan.
Individualized

How do we meet the needs of all students?

We focus on... Six Supportive Clusters - a Wrap-a-Round concept

- Educational Support
- Career Exploration
- Employability Support
- Life Skills
- Student Assistance

Structure of our Student Options
- Day/Week/Hours
- Teaching and Learning Strategies
- Behavioral Expectations & Supports

Identifying Individuals Needs

Personal Needs Profile (PNP)
The PNP is a comprehensive process that creates a profile to identify specific needs of the student. Services identified will be personalized and met through a continuum of delivery opportunities. The structure is based on the six Profile Clusters and structured through an Individualized Learning Plan.

Individualized Learning Plan (ILP)
ILPs are based on the student’s needs and incorporate the six Profile Clusters. Learning plans meet credit needs while supporting student College & Career Readiness.
Career Exploration - Encompasses the opportunity for the student to develop a career path. This is accomplished through career exploration structures within our school, community and supporting agencies.
