NEW! Community-based Transition Options (CBTO) for 18- to 21-year-old Students with Disabilities: A Framework for Discovery

This guide shares a framework for planning community-based transition options for 18- to 21-year-old students with disabilities. This tool will assist local districts in assessing needs and developing transition-focused options within a community-based environment. In addition, the guide assists districts to create a step-by-step process using practical activities and user-friendly forms. The forms have been created to identify student needs, analyze in-school and community resources, set priorities, develop meaningful action plans, and establish the process for evaluation.

Language Sample Analysis II

The original edition of Language Sample Analysis has long been considered one of the most valuable resources available for evaluating expressive language performance. This revised edition provides a standard methodology for conducting language sample analysis in schools. The book categorizes productive language impairment as identified by school-based speech and language pathologists. An extensive reference database on studies with children 3- to 13-years-old is included to aid in interpretations. The appendix includes information on cost effectiveness, software resources, a glossary, and case studies.
