State Superintendent Advisory Council

Representative of the Wisconsin Marketing Education Association (WMEA)

“Education in marketing, business, and information technology provides students with real life skills that are important in all aspects of career and college readiness. I see highly trained educators dedicating their professions to teaching young people to be good citizens, employees, managers, entrepreneurs, and positive contributors to our society and economy. Our programs foster a well rounded education that complements any track a student may wish to take.”
