ARTS & CREATIVITY EDUCATION

VOL. IX NUMBER 10 JUNE 2021

Heart for the Arts

This year has presented a multitude of learning opportunities, challenges, and points of reflection for us all. I want to first thank all of you for your work supporting our young artists, dancers, actors, artistic technicians, and musicians. I have witnessed your resilience, persistence, and creativity in the midst of these unprecedented times. Our methods of instruction, presenting, and engaging students have shifted dramatically. Our hearts for education have continued to glow with love for our communities and our students and families.

Let me point to some examples of how educators across Wisconsin have provided not only learning support to our students and families, but also shown their heart and passion for education to their communities. Here is a visual of activities that have occurred in our school communities. Also take a look at highlights I've shared on Twitter - @ArtsEdCafe. I am so proud to be your colleague and a Wisconsin educator. Thank you again for your work in arts education and for your caring spirit and heart for the arts.
