

ARTS & CREATIVITY EDUCATION

VOL. IX NUMBER 2

OCTOBER 2020

Arts Education Conferences Go Virtual

There are several virtual conferences scheduled this school year. They are tailored to support arts educators' learning. The sessions may include the sharing of effective arts instructional strategies and assessment methods, in-depth standards reviews, the latest research, integration of technology, and inclusive arts practices. Here are the organizations that have scheduled these virtual conferences with links for more information.

- Wisconsin Art Education Association Conference - October 24, 2020
- Wisconsin School Music Conference - October 25-30, 2020
- Wisconsin High School Theatre Festival - December 10-12, 2020
- Wisconsin Choral Directors Association - January 15-16, 2021

Two additional organizations to visit include, Alliance for Wisconsin Theatre Education and the Wisconsin Dance Council Conference. Both have additional webinars and events scheduled on their calendars. Here is a Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction Arts and Creativity Education letter to share with school administration for their consideration of supporting arts educator participation in these opportunities. Thank you again for your work in arts education. Wishing you an engaging year of learning for both you and your students.

The arts continue to play a pivotal role during these challenging times and will continue to do so for all students, regardless of the education learning environment (in person, physically distanced, or virtual). Education Forward from WI DPI has a section focused on arts education programming to consider. This is designed to help administrators, educators, families, and students in safe and healthy practices in the creating, presenting/performing, responding, and connecting within the arts learning spaces.
