Production records are required to document that food meeting the meal pattern was served in the appropriate serving sizes. Continue to work with staff to record accurate serving sizes on production records. For example, during the week of review the production record indicated ¼ cup serving of spaghetti sauce, but the recipe indicates ½ cup serving. Another example is the pulled pork recipe: the production record indicates a 2 oz. serving of meat, whereas the recipe indicates a 3 oz. serving. Thorough, accurate production records aid the menu planner with forecasting, ordering, menu planning, and reducing food waste.

Technical assistance was provided for the recipe standardization process. Recipe standardization ensures that each meal is consistently planned to meet the daily and weekly requirements. Continue to work towards recipe standardization and use all resources available to you. Visit our Standardized Recipes webpage for additional tools and resources or contact a Public Health Nutritionist for assistance (https://dpi.wi.gov/school-nutrition/national-school-lunch-program/menu-planning/recipes; https://dpi.wi.gov/school-nutrition/directory). A few recipes used during the review week lacked pieces of information necessary for standardized recipes: -Sloppy Joe recipe: missing serving utensil, weight per pan, number of pans, and pan size -Pulled pork recipe: missing serving utensil, total weight, volume, number of pans, and pan size. Technical assistance was provided on-site to analyze each portion of the recipe. This is needed for menu planning to ensure that the portions offered are actually what is intended.
