- (1) ensure that any State rules, regulations, and policies relating to this title conform to the purposes of this title;
- (2) identify in writing to local educational agencies located in the State and the Secretary any such rule, regulation, or policy as a State-imposed requirement that is not required by this title and Federal regulations; and
- (3) minimize the number of rules, regulations, and policies to which the local educational agencies and schools located in the State are subject under this title.

States must attach to this application a list identifying any rule, regulation, or policy that is State-imposed (not required by IDEA or Federal regulations). If there are no such State-imposed rules, regulations, or policies, please so indicate. In addition, the State is required to inform local education agencies in writing of such State-imposed rules, regulation or policy. (20 U.S.C. 1407(a); 34 CFR §300.199)

Section 608(a) of the IDEA requires each State that receives funds under this title to:

- (4) ensure that any State rules, regulations, and policies relating to this title conform to the purposes of this title;
- (5) identify in writing to local educational agencies located in the State and the Secretary any such rule, regulation, or policy as a State-imposed requirement that is not required by this title and Federal regulations; and
- (6) minimize the number of rules, regulations, and policies to which the local educational agencies and schools located in the State are subject under this title.

States must attach to this application a list identifying any rule, regulation, or policy that is State-imposed (not required by IDEA or Federal regulations). If there are no such State-imposed rules, regulations, or policies, please so indicate. On September 1, 2012, Act 125 addressing the use of seclusion and restraint went into effect. Section 115.787(2) was created, which requires that if the IEP team determines seclusion or physical restraint may reasonably be anticipated for the child, it must be specified in the IEP, and the IEP must also include positive interventions, supports and other strategies based upon a functional behavior assessment. The Act further requires that if use is not anticipated, but an incident occurs involving either restraint or seclusion, then the IEP team must convene as soon as possible to review the IEP to ensure that it contains appropriate positive behavioral interventions, supports and strategies to address the behavior and revise as necessary. In addition, the Act prescribes training and notification requirements, and imposes restrictions on when and how seclusion or restraint may be used in a school setting. These additional requirements apply to students with and without disabilities.

The following information was communicated in writing via Information Update Bulletin No. 06.01 to local education agencies in Wisconsin in May and modified in December 2006 and was reported in previous applications:

- LEAs are required to conduct an evaluation of a child when referred by a parent or a teacher unless one was conducted within a year. Note: Federal law does not require education agencies to conduct an evaluation for all students referred.
- LEAs must continue to notify parents of the names of individuals who will conduct evaluations, if known, but no longer are required to notify parents of evaluator's qualifications.
- Within 15 business days of receiving a special education referral for evaluation or initiating a reevaluation, the LEA must send to the child's parents either: a request for consent to evaluate the child, or notice that the LEA has determined that no additional assessments are necessary. Additionally, state law now conforms to federal law and requires that within 60 days after an LEA receives parental consent for an initial evaluation or sends the notice that no additional data are needed, the LEA must determine if the child is a child with a disability. The LEA must appoint an IEP team to make the eligibility determination. Exceptions to the 60-day timeline are allowed when the child's parent repeatedly fails or refuses to produce the child for an evaluation; or the child has transferred to an LEA after the 60-day period began and, before the previous LEA completed the evaluation so long as the subsequent LEA is making sufficient progress to ensure prompt completion of the evaluation, and the parents and subsequent LEA agree to a specific time when the evaluation will be completed. Extensions for completing evaluations no longer are allowed except in those situations noted. No extensions may be granted by DPI.
- Within 60 days after an LEA receives parental consent for a reevaluation or sends the notice that no additional data are needed, the LEA must determine if the child continues to be a child with a disability. Note: Federal law does not require the 60-day timeline for reevaluations.
- The special education teacher who participates on IEP teams must have recent training or experience related to the child's known or suspected area of special education needs. Prior to July 1, special education teachers were required to have both recent and extensive training and experience related to the child's known or suspected disability.
- As part of an evaluation, LEAs must provide information about previous interventions provided to children and the effect of those interventions.

- Within 30 days after a determination that the child is or continues to be a child with a disability, the LEA must develop an IEP and determine an educational placement.
- State law maintains the seamless process in the identification, educational planning and placement of children by making the IEP team responsible for these activities.
- If the parents or LEA staff (subject to the stated timelines above) determine at any meeting during the process of the evaluation, IEP development, or placement that additional time is needed to permit meaningful parental participation, the LEA must provide it.
- If a child is attending school in a nonresident school district under the full-time open enrollment program or in certain tuition waiver cases, the IEP team must include at least one person designated by the school board of the resident school district who has knowledge or special expertise about the child.
- LEAs are required to identify a child's particular area of impairment.
- Beginning no later than the first IEP that will be in effect when a child turns 14, and updated annually thereafter, the IEP must include a statement about appropriate, measurable postsecondary goals based on age-appropriate transition assessments related to training, education, employment and, where appropriate, independent living skills and a description of transition services, including courses of study, needed to assist the student in reaching these goals. Note: Federal law requires such information for students age 16 and older.
- When an amendment is made to an IEP without an IEP team meeting, parents must receive a copy of their child's revised IEP. Note: Federal law only requires a copy of their child's revised IEP be provided when requested by the parent.

Act 55, if a child with a disability is attending school in a nonresident school district under Whole Grade Sharing, the IEP team must include at least one person designated by the school board of the resident school district who has knowledge or special expertise about the child.
