THE STATE SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION

In the Matter of the Expulsion of Cory K by Colfax School District Board of Education	DECISION AND ORDER Appeal No.: 02-EX15

NATURE OF THE APPEAL

This is an appeal to the State Superintendent of Public Instruction pursuant to Wis. Stats. § 120.13(1)(c) from the order of the Colfax School District Board of Education to expel the above-named pupil from the Colfax School District. This appeal was filed by the pupil and received by the Department of Public Instruction on April 26, 2002.

In accordance with the provisions of Wis. Adm. Code § PI 1.04(5), this Decision and Order is confined to a review of the record of the school board hearing. The state superintendent's review authority is specified in § 120.13(1)(c). The state superintendent's role is to ensure that the required statutory procedures were followed, that the school board's decision was based upon one or more of the established statutory grounds, and that the school board was satisfied that the interest of the school district demands that the student be expelled.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The record contains a letter entitled "Notice of Expulsion Hearing," dated March 18, 2002, from the district administrator of the Colfax School District. The letter advised a hearing would be held March 25, 2002 that could result in the pupil's expulsion from the Colfax School District through his 21st birthday. The letter was sent separately to the pupil and his parents by certified mail. The letter alleged that the pupil repeatedly refused or neglected to obey school rules. The letter contained a list of fourteen rule violations from August 30, 2001 through March 14, 2001 ranging from tardiness and disruptive classroom behavior to vandalism and possession and use of drugs on school grounds.

The hearing was held in closed session on March 25, 2002. The pupil and his parents appeared at the hearing without counsel. At the hearing, the school district administration presented evidence concerning the grounds for expulsion. The pupil and his parents were given the opportunity to present evidence, to cross-examine witnesses, and to respond to the allegations.

After the hearing, the school board deliberated in closed session. The board found the pupil repeatedly refused or neglected to obey school rules. The school board further found that the interests of the school demand the student's expulsion. The order for expulsion containing the findings of fact and conclusions of law of the school board, dated April 1, 2002, was mailed separately to the pupil and his parents. The order stated the pupil was expelled through the 2002-03 school year with an opportunity for probationary readmission after the end of the first semester of the 2002-03 school year. Minutes of the school board expulsion hearing, and an audiotape of the expulsion hearing are part of the record.

DISCUSSION

School districts are limited-purpose municipal corporations and have only such powers as are conferred specifically by statute or are necessarily implied therefrom. Iverson v. Union Free

High School District, 186 Wis. 342, 353, 202 N.W. 788 (1925). A school board's power to expel students derives from § 120.13(1)(c), which establishes certain categories of offenses that may be the basis for an expulsion and sets out specific procedures that must be followed in the expulsion process.

In reviewing an appeal of an expulsion decision, the Wisconsin Court of Appeals has stated that the scope of the state superintendent's review is limited to that set out in § 120.13(1)(c). In Racine Unified School District v. Thompson, 107 Wis. 2d 657, 667, 321 N.W. 2d 334 (1982), the court of appeals in dicta stated: "The superintendent's review, then, would be one to insure that the school board followed the procedural mandates of subsection (c) concerning notice, right to counsel, etc." Id. In a related context, the court of appeals ruled this dictum has now become "embedded in Wisconsin school law." Madison Metropolitan School District (Lenny G.) v. Wis. D.P.I., 199 Wis. 2d 1, 543 N.W. 2d 843 (1995). It is, therefore, incumbent upon the state superintendent in reviewing an expulsion decision to ensure that the required statutory procedures were followed, that the school board's decision is based upon one of the established statutory grounds, and that the school board is satisfied that the interests of the school district demand the pupil's expulsion.

The appeal letter provides a list of explanations for allegation of misconduct contained in the expulsion. In essence, the parent is challenging the sufficiency of the evidence. It has been repeatedly held that arguments concerning the sufficiency of the evidence are generally beyond the scope of review. Leo P. v. Whitewater Unified School District, Decision and Order No. 351 (March 31, 1998); Brent S. v. Mondovi School District Board of Education, Decision and Order No. 290 (May 23, 1996); Brad A. v. Boyceville Community School District Board of Education, Decision and Order No. 233 (June 29, 1994); and Taiwan O. W. v. Kenosha Unified School District Board of Education, Decision and Order No. 186 (April 7, 1992). Further, a school board's findings will be upheld if any reasonable view of the evidence sustains them. Leo P. v. Whitewater Unified School District, Decision and Order No. 351 (March 31, 1998); Daniel A. v. Mauston School District Board of Education, Decision and Order No. 324 (May 8, 1997); Courtney R. v. Germantown School District Board of Education, Decision and Order No. 278 (March 21, 1996); and Michael Ryan H. v. Clinton Community School District Board of Education, Decision and Order No. 222 (March 10, 1994).

In this case, the school board heard evidence from the school's principal concerning the allegations against Cory. Cory and his parents were then given an opportunity to challenge these allegations with the type of information contained in the appeal letter. The board was in the best position to resolve this conflict in testimony. In all of these circumstances, it was within the board's discretion to give weight to the evidence and arguments, as it deemed appropriate and to judge the credibility of witnesses. See e.g. State ex rel. DeLuca v. Common Council, 72 Wis. 2d 672, 242 N.W. 2d 689 (1976); State ex rel. Wasilewski v. Board of School Directors, 14 Wis. 2d 243, 111 N.W. 2d 198 (1961). See also Jeremy B. v. Waukesha School District Board of Education, Decision and Order 395 (August 16, 1999); Tracy M. v. Random Lake School District Board of Education, Decision and Order No. 244 (January 11, 1995); and Kathleen W. v. Tri-County Area School District Board of Education, Decision and Order No. 130 (May 10, 1985). Therefore, its conclusion that Cory repeatedly violated school rules is upheld.

The appeal also suggests that the punishment is harsh or excessive. Since the authority to "approve, reverse or modify the decision" was conferred upon the state superintendent by 1987 Wis. Act 88, § 3, the state superintendent has consistently declined to modify the length of expulsions. David D. v. Central High School District of Westosha Board of Education, Decision and Order No. 429 (January 25, 2001); Tony R. v. Lake Geneva Joint No. 1 School District Board of Education, Decision and Order No. 294 (June 24, 1996); Brandon H. v. DeSoto Area School District Board of Education, Decision and Order No. 206 (May 3, 1993). The school board is in the best position to judge the demeanor of witnesses as well as to know and understand what its community requires as a response to school misconduct. It would be inappropriate for me, absent an extraordinary circumstance or a violation of procedural requirements, to second-guess the appropriateness of a school board's determination. In reviewing this case, I do not see an extraordinary circumstance or procedural violation that causes me to modify the pupil's expulsion period.

In reviewing the record in this case, I find the school district complied with all of the procedural requisites. I, therefore, affirm this expulsion.

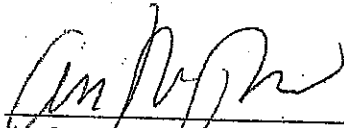

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Based upon my review of the record in this case and the findings set out above, I conclude that the school board complied with all of the procedural requirements of § 120.13(1)(c).
