

School Nurse Update

#10 2/5/19

LOUISE WILSON, MS, BSN, RN, NCSN

IN THIS ISSUE

Greetings!

I feel like I should welcome you all back to receiving the Updates. I appreciate your understanding in the long break between these newsletters as I reenergized myself with a bucket list travel/study trip to New Zealand. If I see you at the Wisconsin Association of School Nurses (WASN) conference, I can show you some of my 640 favorite pictures!

The WASN conference registration is now open. This is a premier opportunity for Wisconsin school nurses to receive targeted professional development. Note in this Update information on tool kits for both the state and national conferences to help school nurses articulate the benefits of attending such conferences.

Dates for the 2019 School Nurse Summer Institute and the fall DPI New School Nurse Orientation are soon to be finalized. Watch for those dates in upcoming SAVE THE DATE. The topic for the School Nurse Summer Institute is helping school nurses understand transgender and transitioning youth. I hope that you will agree it is a timely topic.

Other professional learning opportunities are presented in this Update along with announcements regarding several grants and awards. The WASN School Nurse Administrator of the Year Award and Katheryn Etter School Nurse of the Year Award nomination forms are now online. Nominations are due February 28, 2019. There are many school nurses well deserving of this award!

One-Time Cannabis Use May Alter Teen Brains

Using marijuana even once or twice can significantly alter the grey matter volume (GMV) in several parts of the developing brains of teens, new research suggests. After analyzing data from a large research program assessing adolescent brain development and mental health, investigators found that brain regions rich in cannabinoid receptors are significantly affected in teens who reported very little cannabis use.

"We were motivated to study the effects of low cannabis exposure because, while people have looked at the effect of heavy cannabis or other drug use on the brain, the effect of light use is very understudied," coinvestigator Hugh Garavan, PhD, professor of psychiatry at the University of Vermont, Burlington, told Medscape Medical News.

Million Hearts® Wisconsin

American Heart Month – Take Action Today!

February, American Heart Month and one of our favorite times of the year, is here and we are excited to share many resources and outreach activities in our 2019 Wisconsin Take Heart Tote that is filled with quick and easy ways to Go Red! and promote healthy hearts. The Wisconsin Community Health Fund is a proud supporter of the Million Hearts® Wisconsin initiative working to combat heart disease and other related chronic conditions that account for 7 out of 10 deaths in Wisconsin and 4 out of 5 dollars of health expense. While the challenge is vast, we know that many chronic health conditions are a winnable battle when fueled with healthy living supports and other evidence-based strategies for health improvement.

Throughout February, take action—create a Wisconsin Goes Red event, explore and learn about a new improvement strategy and assist in creating healthy environments and opportunities for all Wisconsin residents. The Tote this year contains specific ready-to-implement ideas for employers, public health, communities and health systems and is ready to be passed along to all of your colleagues and friends.

Please share your pictures and activities with the Wisconsin Community Health Fund on Facebook or via email, have fun celebrating and make an extra effort to love your heart! ♥

PRACTICE POINTS

Since December, school districts throughout Wisconsin have noted increased incidences of gastrointestinal illnesses. The suspected cause in most cases has been norovirus. These incidents create an opportunity for school nurses to highlight the 21st Century School Nursing Practice™ principles of Community/ Public Health, Leadership, Care Coordination, and Quality Improvement. The principles are based upon our School Nursing Scope and Standards of Practice. Taking time to reflect how such an occurrence at your school requires your use of our professional standards and the Framework elevates your school nursing practice!

School nurses are encouraged to monitor absence rates and note patterns or increases. Contact your local public health department if you suspect an infectious disease may be responsible. Conduct interviews of the parents of ill children to determine whether this outbreak is foodborne, person-to-person, and/or related to an outside event. While doing these key nursing interventions and collecting information to make a nursing assessment school nurses use the principles of Quality Improvement, Leadership, and Community and Public Health. (See how easy that was!)

Measures to take in an outbreak include following the “Recommendations for the Prevention and Control of Viral Gastroenteritis Outbreaks in Wisconsin Long-Term Care Facilities.” School nurses should create and maintain a list of ill students and staff. Any ill students or staff should not return to school until at least 48 hours after symptoms have subsided if norovirus is suspected or confirmed. Public health departments recommend a letter be sent to parents with information about the outbreak and prevention measures. Any classroom potlucks or parties involving food should be discontinued for at least one week. Supervised handwashing is a good practice for younger students to ensure compliance. Bleach cleaning is strongly recommended. Recognize how school nurses use evidenced based-practice (using bleach versus other cleaning agents) and the principle of Care Coordination while advising administration and “managing” an outbreak.

To learn more about the Framework for 21st Century School Nursing Practice™ come to the WASN Spring conference where the National Association of School Nurses (NASN) president Nina Fekaris will speak regarding the Framework and using our collective school nurse voice. Also check out the free resources on the NASN webpage dedicated to the Framework: <https://www.nasn.org/nasn/nasn-resources/professional-topics/framework?CLK=11fec0ed-e265-4462-8bde-c9c755471346>

Regularly reflecting on your practice and collecting and using your data are two ways to elevate your school nurse practice. It is the dead of winter and not everyone has the opportunity to take a dream vacation to reenergize. Now is a great time though to make plans for obtaining some professional development and networking.

Project ADAM

Karen Smith Award

Call for nominations!

Project ADAM is seeking nominations of individuals who have demonstrated passion, innovation, and excellence in serving as a champion for their school's CPR-AED program. This award is being presented in honor and memory of Karen Smith.

Karen Smith was a pioneer and leader in school health and safety. Her passion and dedication were reflected in her work and her life outside of work. Karen served for over 20 years as the Nursing Services Coordinator for the Pewaukee School District in Wisconsin. Rising to the top of her efforts was her personal mission to help prepare communities to recognize and respond to cardiac emergencies.

Karen annually trained more than 500 people in CPR and automated external defibrillator (AED) use, including students, teachers, coaches, administration and many more in the community. She made it her mission to train every student of Pewaukee schools in CPR/AED use throughout their education. This includes trainings in grades 7-12 with repeated renewal courses. Likewise, she ensured that all new staff received SCA awareness training as part of the standard orientation process. She served on the Project ADAM national advisory committee since its inception in 1999. Through her charismatic work with Project ADAM Karen tested new ideas to pave the way for easier CPR/AED training in schools, rallied the support of legislators and community leaders and established a national model for the implementation of public access defibrillation programs in schools.

When Karen died at the age of 62 on January 26, 2010 due to pancreatic cancer, she still had many plans and ideas to be carried-out to make school communities even safer. Through this award we strive to honor Karen's memory and continue her good work by recognizing individuals who reflect her passion and commitment to creating safer school communities by championing cardiac emergency preparedness.

Kids deserve the best.

Topics will follow the principles of the Framework for 21st Century School Nursing™, with current NASN president Nina Fekaris presenting the opening keynote. Other speakers of note include Martha Dewey-Bergren, Ruth Ellen Luehr, and Sue Will, past NASN President, who will close out the conference with a motivating presentation on the "Seven Habits of Highly Successful School Nurses." For those who may not be able to be away from their districts for the entire conference, it is our hope that by offering two full days, we present an alternate opportunity to participate by having the option to choose a single day that is of most interest to you. Earn up to 13.75 hours of CEUs and be sure to register early to take advantage of the new early-bird discount.

Finally, this year we will have two new fun and exciting social networking events directly on the resort's property; no need to drive anywhere!
