

Social and Emotional Learning & Mental Health Evidence-Based Strategies

What is an Evidence-Based Strategy

Evidence-based strategies are strategies, practices, or programs that have evidence to show that they produce results and improve outcomes. They've been tested, and they're based on knowledge gained through rigorous research. To see a list of the programs found in the lists below see the Verified EBP Spreadsheet.

The School-based Mental Health (SBMH) Grant requires that grant funded activities must be evidence-based where a solid evidence-base is established. SEL and Bully Prevention Curriculum, funded with the SBMH grant, must be found on a National Registry of Evidence-based Programs.
